

ZOE LIU 李 澧 榆

Born in HONG KONG, 1991

Zoe Liu was born and raised in Hong Kong and currently resides in Honolulu, Hawai'i. Liu graduated with a BFA from the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa, with Outstanding Undergraduate Awards in Drawing and Digital Imaging. She currently worked as a teaching artist at Honolulu Museum of Art School. Her works have been showcased in Hawai'i, Chicago, Portland and Las Vegas. She recently took part in a two-person exhibition Let'em Flee (2017) in the Hawaii Pacific University Gallery and also participated in "Art at Large" (2017), Construction Barricade Mural at University of Hawai'i at Mānoa.

Yet grew up in Hong Kong and received higher education in United States, art gives Liu a different perspective and allows her to communicate in a visual manner, without the barriers of language. She primarily employs ink, watercolor, pastel, charcoal and gesso on paper and investigates existential questions, social contradictions, and education issues. In particular issues about silencing and forced-feeding education style.
